Frequently Asked Questions

- a) I am performing a private puja at my home/in the Temple. How much dakshina should I be giving?

The suggested minimum dakshina for the Priest is 35% of the Temple fee (see accompanying chart of fee schedule for poojas). Many devotees give up to 100% of fees to show their gratitude and appreciation for the services rendered.

- b) For a private puja I would like make a donation to the Temple above the regular fee charged by the temple. How much dakshina should I be giving to the priest?

Thank you for making a donation to the Temple. The suggested minimum dakshina for the Priest is 35% of the Temple fee (see accompanying chart of fee schedule for poojas). Many devotees give up to 100% of fees to show their gratitude and appreciation for the services rendered

- c) I have already donated $1000 or more to the Temple this year. Do I still need to pay for priestly services?

If you do not have a Benefactor Privileges Certificate, please request one from finance@histemplemn.org. With the certificate you will be exempt from paying Temple fee for the pooja. However, the suggested minimum dakshina for the Priest is still 35% of the expected Temple fee (see accompanying chart of fee schedule for poojas). You are always welcome to give more dakshina for gratitude and appreciation for the services rendered.

- a) I am attending a Temple-conducted pooja? Is there an expectation of dakshina to the priest?

While minimum dakshina is not applicable to regular weekly and monthly poojas conducted inside the Temple, you are more than welcome to do so. Money put in arati plate does not go to the priest. If you would like to give dakshina, please place it in an envelope, write priest's name on it and either give it to him or place it in Hundi.
